

THE DOG WORKS
Proudly Presents
MARC CHRISTOPHER HERDING CLINIC
September 6th & 7th, 2008
with private lessons held on Monday, September 8th

At the Caroline and Doug Weil farm: W4273 Moonlite Rd
Neillsville, WI 54456

Is there something better than the traditional methods of training stock dogs? Tired of watching enthusiastic young dogs racing sheep toward you out of control? Had enough of yelling, running at your dog and throwing things at him? Well, then you most likely will greatly enjoy and appreciate the training methods of Marc Christopher. Quiet gentle maneuvers that make doing the wrong thing difficult and the right thing easy, highlight Marc's very intuitive way of schooling dogs.

Marc Christopher is a USBCHA Trial Judge, clinician, and trainer of all breed stock dogs since 1977. Marc understands the natural behavior and silent universal language between predator and prey. This is the foundation of the training method he teaches.

Marc Christopher Philosophy:

“Obedience is the immediate goal of training, the ultimate goal is fruition”

All participants are addressed via wireless microphone and public address system. Auditing participants are encouraged to learn through observation and by asking questions. Note taking is encouraged. Marc will be in control of time and the amount of working time that each dog is allowed. Videotaping is allowed only of your own dog working, with Marc's permission. A waiver, provided the day of the seminar, must be signed by all in attendance, including auditors.

Cost: Working participants - $90 per day
Limited to 14 dogs (preference given to those registering for both days)

Auditors/Spectators - $45 per day
